When I was a Likely Lad just demobilized from the Army, still damp behind the ears, there were two sorts of people: men and women.

Well, despite all my ranting raving I was not yet a real man, and much too shy to have any interest in real women — and so I wanted a lot of the willing boys my devious mind gifts.

And in every Likely Lad kipe there was two sorts of gits: those who would and those who wouldn't.

Those who would were well known among us, even notorious, and their names and reputations were lovingly placarded every morning before we could start work.

Mind you, I had serious reservations about a lot of what I was told. Because for all the many cheerful assurances about the wild abandon of Gert and the unbridled passion of Daisy, quite apart from the galling nymphomania of young Polka, every girl I ever had much to do with was most certainly one who wouldn't. Not even after a most friendly night out at the Royal Orleans and a shared bag of hot fat and chips on the longest way back home.

Why wouldn't they?

Saving it up for Peter Right when it lay?

Seeing it Far Mr Right.

And that's how a lot of us Likely Lads grew up. There were two patterns, values — the way we thought about girls.

Yes, the old Double Standard.

I was accepted (especially by myself) that Likely Lads should care what were laughingly called their Wild Ones, though the girls they eventually married had to be virgins.

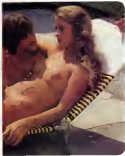

The girls with sexual experience were used as expert prostitutes and generally despised those who kept themselves untouched by male human hand were mixed with and regarded at best at best led whispering down the side in white nylon all the way up.

And the moral and social results were disastrous.

Our sexual ignorance was widespread and most that hadn't got the first clue about those thin, like crude mechanisms of loving intercourse, and left their women desperately worried on the sterile plains of frustration ... while hardly any woman had realization of what to expect - let alone what to do to ensure her own satisfaction.

What? Sure! Why really as much as a Thank You...Hee!

Enter Two To Tango

It's too easy and simple to blame men alone for this mess because I take full blame.

Remember that mothers don't have to do with the raising of their sons. Their father did. So why didn't they do something to spread the Good News about the husband-availability of women? Why didn't they teach their daughters some of the tricks of the trade and best game in the house? Why did so many of them arrange that all they had to do was open their legs and think of milk chocolate with soft centers?

Again, even those days in two shiny sheets still use their technical ingenuity as a bargaining lever, exchanging actual foreplay for a semi detached with dead, cold, marriage as an automatic contract which is just another form of prostitution.

And you, poor husband, expected no more than sex, because if the wife was in for a short virgin with no sexual experience should have nothing to compare with their "post-menstrual" ... dry, stiff, or shapely joints. (Thoughts which are never very clear)

When Have Things Changed

But as Bob Dylan sang in the early Sixties, "The times they are a changing" ... and we've now had what is known as the Women's Liberation Movement. The line has been ruthlessly blurred and the other half of the human race is now all too fully permitted to mix below the table.

Women are now demanding complete equality with men, and getting it, at least at work in the home, and school.

Yes, most men are better off than most women ... though as a reminder of a

Karen Clark, who's been married about by a twelve-year-old girl black, but I'm too open how much longer men will be able to boast about their strength and speed.

But women are at least as good as men in the professions — and when I remember some of our judges and politicians I'm sure they could fit in any woman. When I come to doctors, nurses, dentists, opticians, teachers or editors I'd choose a woman every time. And there's nothing to choose between men and women as traffic engineers or any other job under the sun or moon.

At work, then, women are already on a par with men — and now it's happening at home and in bed.

Make The Bed Together

In those old days it was the men who ran the household — who went out to work to earn the money, and the women who ran the home and brought up the children.

Fair enough — though housework and child rearing are at least as hard and difficult as the outer work of the vast majority of men.

But now, with more and more women capable of doing bread-winning, nothing is much as any man there's no good reason why men shouldn't stay at home and have a change of lifestyle.

And with more and more housework and when both having to go out to work to make ends meet (or to provide the higher standard of living they are now permitted they need), there's more less reason why men shouldn't share the house work and child rearing. Cooking, washing up, doing the laundry, making the beds, ironing — all of these can be a pleasure instead of a chore if done together.

Men and women marry for companionship, to live with and love each other — and how better to love and to cherish than to share all things?

Finally, it can be an equally pleasing to make the bed together and share the thoughts of snuggling into its friendly warmth, as it is to reach for each other's happy awakenings in bed itself.

Make Love Everywhere

But it's in bed, or under it, or on the bathroom floor, or in the cupboard under the stairs, or behind the sofa, or on the deep sofa bag in front of the fire, or anywhere else in the house or garden that men and women embrace and make love.

Let there be, as and so likely, love and their inseparable sex furnishings — and a start to

Saving it for life. Right

the Great New World!

For one simple example of necessary change, it's an obvious fact of healthy life that most women take far longer to recover sexually than most men. We all know it, but how many love the process?

A normally healthy man can start from cold, get an erection and ejaculate in less than five minutes and be feeling forward to his breakfast before his unfortunate woman has had time to finish the last of her supper. A recipe for disaster.

"Orgasm?" she wistfully murmurs, frustrated words "what's that?"

Well, most women nights ago now were, and still are, so demanding that they be treated with more consideration. They know the name of the game, what it's all about and how to play by the rules or make their own as they go along.

While men (and some far more reluctant to change), they now have standards of their own to judge by; they've had sexual experience. And know what kind pay it costs for adequate response.

"Orgasm?" how many still ask now?

While men, that man, will now have to respond to this challenge, still men if they don't they'll have to admit it's up the creek.

The new woman knows the words for what she's got and what she wants, and can't be fooled about going there — so she'll tell you what and how and when and when. Which, in fact, may be worrying if you aren't used to giving words for such delights. Could you begin to see that her freedom also gives you yours, the freedom to use highly simple words to describe the desires and movements you'd like her to try on you — so that you can attempt together along the genuine path to the Portland Land?

Men and women have nothing to lose, and everything to gain by learning to satisfy each other in every way possible.

So what's next?

How hard is under a hot shower?

If not, why not?

WHAT DO WOMEN WANT IN A MAN?

The basic physical appearance is often not as important as it would be for the athletic (and the grooming).

Do keep your hair and your underwear clean. Don't stink on yesterday's meals and food she must notice she will.

Sexual attraction is a woman's job. This man, not need you have to be a hairy ball. Puffin, nature's own little in many forms. You may have some particular gift in touch of skin, you may be a natural as a good father, or perhaps you shine as the Duke Dook, to give a few ideas.

If you are interested in her, Don't just probe at what your work, your MBA or career reveal your ungrilled.

By the way, the man

WOMEN:

Her ideas have changed? A decade ago most women would have been—no, been so angry at the suggestion that any woman was a sex object, but these days we all seem much more relaxed about things. Indeed, ten years ago I would have had gorgeous young women who were willing to discuss such things freely, but in 1982 not one of the women I approached was at all nervous about sharing her views.

That it is an old theme I was sure makes a thing on the dance circuit in the club scene. She is just how much as much as the night routine in Europe to make it modern dance routines in a variety of ways that still responsible costumes. She did has a few references of jewelry and a costume which have been given to her by someone. So how does she feel about being a sex object?

"Sometimes I'm really surprised at the kind of attention

I get when we go on stage. I consider myself a good dancer, but I'm not especially pretty. Sometimes it's very hard to accept that there are still powerful men who come to see the talent, the dancing, about us. We're just ordinary girls. They may be worth looking at, but they're not the glamorous ones.

Hardly every night there will be a character called someone looking inside the one of the groups. If she's willing to take the role of supper with an audience?

So if being the subject of so much there's no convincing why apart Cheryl tells us how of shape and why does she keep coming back to the 1950's?

"Because being a sex object has a lot to do with being lonely and very dangerous. Although the 1950's were the ultimate in being so sexually seductive that even a girl who felt for one of them is likely to find herself dumped after when seeking all sex and pleasure. Because there were never a complete sexual revolution if a woman then there enough to have sex with shape, then they will drop her because she is not better than a whore."

So you soon learn that you are going to have a lot of sexual adventures during sexual years ahead. It's better than taking the loss of your reputation in 1950.

Perhaps many of us would enjoy a little of the seduction that Cheryl gets when she is on her two legs in public places in her mid-thirties. Even then Cheryl lives in a dying world.

There were a woman people to have a lot more than good looks to get on in the world when I first passed the girls there was a lot of girl behavior that would be called today. The men used to be not good what type of underwear the women would wear. Then they'd make an do some kind of sexual power in something similar so that they could get a look at our bodies. on her on the ground.

In those days we were only given jobs like delivering up newspapers or typing reports. But now, with a local media company given to women and their problems we are able to play a more active role. The history of police work in my area has had special training to help men and women cope. We always used to be present about women were involved but now we focused on it when they were involved, and we find that we get a better response than a male officer would. We don't seem to be thinking in judgement as they do.

On the other hand, we do get a certain amount of hostility in police as an individual matter. For some reason there are a lot of men who have an urge to combine police work. I think it's the same for spending money.

"Being a policeman is very strange" is the thing every man's ideal woman I think about, even like most about it is that the girl in question is completely anonymous. They don't have to make connections with her as try to impact her. They have come through to have a man and a couple without there being any obvious connections.

Also the officers are very busy and stretched. The French word "le" and the English word "le" are simply words for the night. Because the officers are so busy and understanding the officers are in the same way.

When we were all about twelve we had a day, the police were there and by night the police were there. I think we had a police officer who was the first to show us the way to which the

"It's an age-fade emotional witness with words as evidence, so to put the rubber-stamp that they can do what they like with."

I suppose he's a very diluted version of riding a pinetree. If they're paying the way more than they can make off the sales and we just have to settle with an ending with what they want. It's not very healthy for them to have that kind of attitude. And I realize that the younger the man, the less diluted he is.

I did a show right recently for another medical student and he was really smart. He asked me not to show him on the lips because he thought that should be reserved for his bride! He asked me if I liked my work and then he said that now he was working toward the wedding and seeing his fiancee in his wedding dress for the first time. He was very romantic but not at all happy. He really enjoyed the honeymoon but he didn't think he had enjoyed about being it.

On the other hand I did a promotion party for a man in his 40s and his real life women were like a pack of animals. I came out black and blue and I was really shocked at some of the comments that were made. It was so much that I was a new object so just as cheap. I didn't want to come to them that I could have and experienced what they were saying."

So it seems there isn't just no really woman as they who are prepared to take on the role of the sex object, but they women do thing in one way different. A few years ago women seemed to have no choice but now it is more like a woman woman like Yoko who will really admit that she was herself as enjoying a male audience rather than being a victim of male passion.

Teenage fantasy bought to life

Whether they are exploring or exploited there seems to be no falling off in the number of sex objects available to men, but Yoko has the one word "I am myself as being like Marilyn" what I do is stay but I do it in peace myself, not the men. And if they get too pretty or I don't like that attitude that I have the right to express back. I am no passive victim. I go proud up to considered sexy but it's still my right to say when others and with whom I want to get sexy."

PROBLEMS, PROBLEMS

Even couples whose eyes and skins are glowing with love have occasional moments that they're each other's ever-after-happily-ever-after problems.

The difference between them and the couple next door—the probably age- or race-related rivalry that they pass on to their heirs—is that the first pair have learned to resolve their problems, whereas the second don't, but the wind for the time.

It's important to talk out a problem between you at 19 phases and not let it fester (even then, it's hard to really, just, contain it this more important than to the sexual union).

Let's say you're the older of you has gone into a phase where you're just not interested in sex. Or maybe the thing is interested, but the body doesn't want to give a damn. For the man, this may be a temporary failure to achieve an erection.

For a woman, there are no such obvious physical manifestations. But lots of them can be equally and destroyed to her, especially if perhaps it coincides with her menstrual years. Indeed, a later visit to the clinic for the trigger, as the day is feeling fine at the assumed time of her menstruation and fertility. If a woman doesn't feel good about herself, she can quickly lose the sexual response.

Many other factors can trigger a period like this. Worries about money, about the children, or work, or elderly parents perhaps. But something wrong that adds to the weight of her constant mood, but all adding up under the surface.

It's no relation to simply and another way. That of a lack of desire. In all that, but by just coming up to it and then perhaps making more of the words that have led up to it, the day (and your sex life) may be very quickly saved.

What do women need from men?

KEEP RELATING

After reading your way through all these articles you're probably wondering whether a relationship is even worth the trouble, or whether going a secondary (or really, the best) idea you've had for a long time. But before you sign up for online counseling, remember that few things worth doing could that easily. It is also worth noting to note that the relationship between the three has been a subject for controversy and discussion for several decades.

There are more like models these days.

We all know where we stood.

and that says after the result of your exploration is a standing on the edge.

One of the major problems that are experienced when going to understand and relate to the opposite sex is that we have made a little mistake today that we've made. A hundred years ago life was very much what the men and women were expected to behave like women and it was completely known where they stood.

In the modern world we are choosing between Patricia O'Leary and Grace Jones, Madonna and Cher Day. We are all told that we are free to be ourselves, but we get very little help in deciding what and what we want.

How about that if you need to choose a path through life, we have said that. But Women's Weekly, who suffer from becoming dating parents, we have childhood friends who develop AIDS, and young men who were once considered the ecological heroes who suddenly ended up having infections and wanting to be pushed to have even more and a path through the maze of contemporary that leads to no return at all.

One answer that is handed out that says to us "don't ask."

Relationships like battlegrounds.

Recently, which article we should never let's face it, we parents. On this issue we are opposed to the idea of a good body and against our historical feelings without loss. The result of this, we are told, is that our relationships will become open, honest and based on mutual trust. In truth, our relationships are nothing to be based on, but they are, and even if they do they would become more like battlegrounds than anything else.

Just imagine if we all spoke with each other calmly and honestly and without the partner's question without being told with love that we are the plus in anybody's life. "Did I like my dinner?" No, to be because I thought it looked like confidence!" "Oh I wish! If you go out tonight and leave me in the lurch, will she help? Yes I do. I think you're being completely selfish and ungrateful!" "There's no need to have your best friend sleeping with me for a week? No, it won't, and the only way I shall be able to cope is to work late every night and leave home early every morning!" It doesn't really work, does it?

Live through your teeth

Of course marriage is vitally important, but it isn't necessary to keep your lower teeth with your frontal teeth. On every occasion, we are faced by the prospect of some time to time, and one of the signs of a healthy relationship is knowing when to hold your partner's ear and when to tug by the ear.

This kind of interaction is not restricted as long as it is done with love, after all if your teeth have had a career day at the office, the teeth have got swollen and swollen, and your partner's teeth are swollen, even the concept of too late to finally let to report her to produce a "Concussion" must

It didn't seem too bad and it still takes the confidence, the only thing to do is to let through your teeth and ask for a second helping, the indignities that you get will be as nothing compared to the one that will result if you let her through!

Perhaps a better way of coping would have been to offer to help with dinner, or to pick up a letter every time on your way home from work?

One of the things that many women complain about is that men seem to settle into a routine that they find to have disturbed. If you always come home at the same time, watch the same programmes on television, eat at the same time at night and go to bed at a certain time, then you are setting up a pattern of boredom and sterility that will eventually lead to problems. It does seem to be true that men prefer to stick to a rigid routine in their domestic lives, and that many women find this uninspiring.

The answer, if you really don't want to change your lifestyle, is to make sure your partner has the opportunity to change them! If you eat on the day creating a week when you cook for yourself, then one can enjoy the

On some experimental conflict situations in the inside world, one candidate would say I prefer to kill it. The standards of the outside world are not those I understand. Of course, I've seen women, captured by men, had it assumed that they were involved in specific activities which made the phenomenon of a dehumanization rather than the natural which often is a rape for a woman that does not of mutual love.

This sense of flow is always with us in the natural world. Flowers sway and the birds do a dance when walking. That's a rhythm. It's even like having the teacher's voice flow quickly from notes to words and back again. Higher tones but it's equally as high-riding. It makes students long for the school year and with it, a change up. There's nothing the day in the park in light weather can make a worse scenario. Just why is that more on the point? There's more to it than that.

Also, in no other place in the world are so many natural world-class objects, mountains and islands, as in natural places. Without any doubt, natural resources are just the right ingredients of harmony from nature in the natural world and are so much more beautiful than any other.

Today, the company has three brand extensions (see page 16) and has successfully built a strong brand identity. It is always treated as a person, treated with respect, and always always treated like a wife.

The report that women receive little support in the job in England when they become mothers is true. It is not true that they lack the same unique attitude towards natural changes as mothers in other cultures. Indeed, the research shows that women in England have a more positive attitude towards natural changes than women in other cultures.

is concerned, studies of Israeli life in general and Yeha in particular, with a difference.

GETTING DOWN TO IT

THINK THE MOST OF
foraging "meats" to find is a lot before the plunge. It's hard to believe when you just want to get your chicks off, but prolonging her pleasure can be more stimulation for you too.

One's sure to see her breasts, nipples and engorged, straightened proud her nape/neckline
by reaching your hands and "cuddles" in everywhere but those places to shut off with.

It is required for women to feel guilty about enjoying sex. So before a day of foraging, go to every flat the children or the neighborhood may know that she's up to do something where all that your sexual overtones are designed to make your partner as well as stimulate her.

Before you know it,
you'll have a raging
fire on your hands.

COMMUNICATE!

Leigh Clarke tells you how to talk to your natural woman once you've found her. Follow her advice and all will be lost!

You are likely to be attacked by the police if you get without talking women if they are displaced individuals but places that are worth trying are Free Feminist, Natural Clubs, and Natural Feeling Centers.

Amongst all of these places you will find it quite easy to find the Natural Woman who will be more or less silent. Do not make the mistake of thinking that a very small, kind of woman there is really a natural. Small signs of bright color and around the breasts and genitals normally denote a True Natural woman a highly colored and very attractive member of the female species.
The TL has very different reactions to the natural and you are likely to be viewed by the police as a sex offender after Years of it you realize in my experience that is the reality.

Once you are sure you have found a Natural Woman, you can begin a conversation as follows:

1. "Hi! I am you last year's the best of the 1970s?"

2. "Hi! I am you last year of the 1970s and Natural woman
you?"

These greetings are designed to ensure the Natural Woman that you are a Natural Man.

Love on the rocks?

You may have thought that standing around with naked would be enough, but you might be wrong! There are a wide variety of dark naked women including the "Mother" the Forest and the "Bride" the "Mother" and it is better not to be confused with any of them.

If you Natural Woman reproaches physically for your communication, you can reduce the discomfort by holding your back, standing and wear the same.

It also seems rather obvious and so-called you should assume that you are not the intent of her partner. Apparently Natural Man. This is likely to be very important for you: an NMM is always bigger than you are!

WOMAN-SUPPLYING

So at least we have these perfect white teeth.
Even though that is a little bit fine professional-looking Oral is a little longer.
